California Code of Civil Procedure 2020 Edition Erin Brandt,2020      Code of Civil Procedure of California Shubham Sinha,2015-11-23 The California Code of Civil Procedure commonly abbreviated to Code Civ Proc or just CCP was enacted by the California State Legislature in March 1872 as the general codification of the law of civil procedure in the U S state of California along with the three other original California Codes It contains most California statutes that govern the filing and litigation of lawsuits in the Superior Courts of California as well as legal notices that must be given in a variety of circumstances It also includes statutes of limitations that control the period of time during which a lawsuit must be commenced It also contained some statutes governing the legal profession but those were later relocated into the Business and Professions Code Originally the CCP was the codification of the Practice Act of 1851 as amended and revised In turn the Practice Act had been modeled after the New York Code of Civil Procedure of 1850 which was largely drafted by the law reformer David Dudley Field II Hence California is considered to be a Field Code state The CCP also partially codified the law of evidence but in 1965 the evidentiary provisions were repealed and replaced by the new California Evidence Code which unlike the CCP was deliberately intended to displace and supersede the common law of evidence Like the 28 other California Codes the CCP is frequently amended by the Legislature Unlike most other states California never followed the federal trend towards transferring authority over procedural law to the courts through statutes like the federal Rules Enabling Act Instead the California Rules of Court CRC cover only relatively minor matters such as the formatting of court papers and case management rules implementing the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act of 1986 Nearly all important procedural provisions i e the ones that can make or break a case continue to exist in the form of CCP sections As a result whenever the Judicial Council of California identifies a major defect in California civil procedure it cannot fix it by promulgating a new court rule but must instead lobby the Legislature and Governor to amend the CCP Today the CCP is comprehensive only with regard to trial court procedure As a result of a bill pushed through the Legislature at the suggestion of Chief Justice Phil S Gibson in 1941 appellate procedure in California is governed primarily by the CRC As a Field Code state California continues to subscribe to the primary right or ultimate fact theory of pleading also known as fact pleading which has been traditionally followed by Field Code states This means that California adheres to an arcane distinction between what constitutes pleading of a mere fact versus an ultimate fact versus a conclusion of law Also California is one of two states along with Virginia which uses the demurrer as the primary pre answer attack on the complaint Most states and the federal courts have switched to modern notice pleading and use the motion to dismiss for failure to state a cause of action instead of the demurrer
