The Memory of Architecture in Edith Wharton's Travel Writings Ágnes Zsófia Kovács,2024-09-13 Edith Wharton was not only the author of novels and short stories but also of drama poetry autobiography interior decoration and travel writing This study focuses on Wharton s symbolic representations of architecture in her travel writings It shows how a network of allusions to travel writing and art history books influenced Wharton s representations of architectural and natural spaces The book demonstrates Wharton s complex relationship to works of art historians John Ruskin mile M le Arthur C Porter and travel authors Wolfgang Goethe Henry Adams Henry James in the trajectory of her travel writing Kov cs surveys how the acknowledgment of Wharton s sources sheds light both on the author s model of aesthetic understanding and scenic architectural descriptions and how the shock of the Great War changed Wharton s travel destinations but not her symbolic view of architecture as a mediator of things past Wharton s symbolic representations of architecture provide a new key to her travel writings

Ravel Studies Deborah Mawer, 2010-11-18 Demonstrating the vibrant nature of current research on Maurice Ravel one of the most significant figures in twentieth century French music a team of distinguished international scholars provides new interdisciplinary perspectives and insights Through historical critical and analytical means the volume reveals the symbiotic relationships between Ravel's music and aesthetic cultural literary gender performance based and medical studies While the chapters progress from French aesthetic literary association including Colette and Proust to more extended disciplinary couplings with American history jazz dance and neurology the organization is relatively free to enable other thematic links to emerge The volume presents a refreshing variety of scholarly approaches to Ravel and his music set within broad contexts and current musicological debates In a Ravelian spirit it is intended that the essays will serve collectively as a model for expanding the agendas of other composer based studies

Geographies of Travel Susan L. Roberson, 2025-05-01 Travel writing was the most popular genre of writing in the nineteenth century Initially published in newspapers and journals as dispatches from the road these works allowed readers to join in on fabulous adventures by becoming armchair tourists second hand voyeurs of the peoples and places the writer visited In order to take readers along on their journeys travel writers typically recorded miles covered and dates of travel in a log or diary They also documented key details of the experience itself describing the conditions of the road the people they met and their accommodations food and clothing The nineteenth century specifically offered a form of travel writing that commented on the ruined environment that ran afoul of the century's ethos of progress with voices such as Henry David Thoreau John Muir and John James Audubon exploring a newfound environmental consciousness Geographies of Travel is organized geographically by region with essays examining local journeys in the Northeast Midwest Far West and the South This regional arrangement allows readers to consider the geographic imagination of each region and the kinds of travel it invited as well as providing valuable insight on the ways in which Americans reacted to both natural and social regional landscapes Each region is treated chronologically so as to interrogate not only individual narratives but also the ways that travel tourism and modes of transportation evolved over time The work concludes with an examination of Henry James's The American Scene in a coda that brings together his astute observations of the Northeast and the South at the turn of the century Occasional interludes point to the ways that travel reverberates in the artistic work of some of the authors making connections between travel and the imagination

Encountering Difference: New Perspectives on Genre, Travel and Gender Gigi Adair, Lenka Filipova, 2020-03-03 This edited collection poses crucial questions about the relationship between gender and genre in travel writing asking how gender shapes formal and thematic approaches to the various generic forms employed to represent and recreate travel While the question of the genre of travel writing has often been debated is it a genre a hybrid genre a sub genre of autobiography and recent years have been much attention to travel writing and gender these have rarely been combined This book sheds light on how the gendered nature of writing and reading about travel affect the genre choices and strategies of writers as well as the way in which travel writing is received It reconsiders traditional and frequently studied forms of travel writing both European and non European In addition it pursues questions about the connections between travel writing and other genres such as the novel and films minor forms including journalism and blogging and new sub genres such as the new nature writing focusing in particular on the political ramifications of genre in travel writing The collection is international in focus with discussions of works by authors from Europe Asia Australia and both North and South America consequently it will be of great interest to scholars and historians in those regions
