SPECIAL EXHIBITION

A black and white photograph of three women in military uniforms, likely from the World War II era. They are standing in front of a large American flag. The woman on the left is wearing a dark uniform with a peaked cap. The woman in the center is wearing a dark uniform with a peaked cap and a dark tie. The woman on the right is wearing a dark uniform with a peaked cap and a dark tie. They are all looking towards the camera with serious expressions.

But This Is Our War:

But This is Our War Grace Morris Craig, 1981-12-15 Pembroke August 4 1914 On a verandah in town four young people anxiously await news that will change irrevocably the course of their lives A fifth arrives out of breath with the latest bulletin from the telegraph office War has been declared and it is their war At the age of ninety Grace Craig looks back to her youth and tells the story of the impact of the Great War on her family and friends Letters from the young men on the Western Front are interwoven with her own memories of the war Her brother Basil youngest officer in the No 1 Canadian Tunnelling Company fights underground driving mineshafts deep below the tortured earth of no man s land later as an observer in the Royal Flying Corps he flies above the enemy lines amidst the bursting shells His older brother Ramsey a lieutenant in the 38th Battalion fights in the constant mud on the ground and must lead his men over the top in the face of enemy fire At home their sister knits socks and scarves packs boxes to be sent overseas serves vast quantities of apple pie and ice cream in the canteen at nearby Camp Petawa and leads the assembled troops in stirring war songs In November 1916 she braves the U boats and the North Atlantic to spend time with her brothers while they are on leave in England Divided by danger and distance letters alone allowed contact The soldiers yearned for everyday news of home and in Pembroke one waited for and kept forever those precious scraps of paper from beyond the sea But This is Our War is a moving absorbing document of young Canadians at war

Our War Too Margaret Paton-Walsh, 2002 In the late 1930s a number of American women especially those allied with various peace and isolationist groups protested against the nation s entry into World War II While their story is fairly well known Margaret Paton Walsh reveals a far less familiar story of women who fervently felt that American intervention was absolutely necessary Paton Walsh recounts how the United States became involved in the war but does so through the eyes of American women who faced it as a necessary evil Covering the period between 1935 and 1941 she examines how these women functioned as political actors even though they were excluded from positions of power through activism in women s organizations informal women s networks and even male dominated lobbying groups In the Great Debate over whether America should enter the war some women favored aid to the Allies not because they hoped for war but because they hoped aid would forestall more direct U S involvement but also because they believed war was preferable to a Nazi victory Paton Walsh shows that this activism involved some of the most prominent women of their day Elizabeth Cutter Morrow whose son in law Charles Lindbergh was an isolationist spokesman supported the revision of the Neutrality Acts to allow the sale of arms to the Allies and expressed her support in a national radio broadcast Soon other women joined this debate Esther Brunauer of the AAUW journalist Dorothy Thompson and organizations like the League of Women Voters and National Women s Trade Union League broke from the pacifist tradition to advocate American aid for the Allied cause Focusing on the conflict in Europe Paton Walsh shows how these women grasped the implications of the Lend Lease program for America s entry into the war but supported it nevertheless By late 1941 the Women s Division of the Fight for Freedom Committee had been established no longer merely advocating aid to Britain to keep American boys out of battle this organization supported direct American involvement in the war as a means of stopping Nazi oppression While most historians have focused on women s pacifism Paton Walsh connects women more directly to world events and shows how those interventionists reformulated maternalist ideas to justify and explain their beliefs Our War Too is a story of American women trying to reconcile the irreconcilable to preserve both their principles and their peace It expands our understanding of women as political actors and thinkers about foreign policy as it sheds new light on American public opinion over the build up to the war
