This a wonderful adventure tale of an English boy facing hard times who acts with integrity and courage despite great adversity The story opens in England where young Frank lives with his widowed mother in a coastal town in Kent He is well liked by his schoolmates but because of the death of his officer father is unable to afford the kind of lifestyle they enjoy When unexpected tragedy leaves him truly destitute he is forced to rely upon his wits and strength of character to make his way His love of natural science leads him to a position at a naturalist's shop in London where his life takes a turn Eventually he travels to West Africa on an expedition to collect natural specimens with a noted scientist and explorer His party encounters numerous adventures with the locals and some close calls with wild animals as his party ventures into the interior during a time of tribal unrest With its 19th century era attitudes about race the rights of the British Empire and the cavalier habit of killing birds and animals to stuff and exhibit the book is likely to offend in those respects However G A Henty wrote this and many other adventure tales when the world was a very different place This book is a product of its time and despite these problems still manages to honor the bravery wisdom and integrity of many persons of other races featured in the book Overall it is a gratifying well written coming of age story of old fashioned pluck and determination if you forgive the 19th century mindset of the author

By Sheer Pluck G. A. Henty, Gordon Browne, 2016-08-02 Frank Hargate is an unassuming but intrepid young student of natural history whose cool head saves several schoolmates from drowning The grateful father of one secures Frank s appointment as assistant to Mr Goodenough a famous naturalist who is planning a two year expedition into the heart of Africa Frank and Mr Goodenough have many wonderful and perilous adventures culminating in their capture by the fierce Ashantis

Gordon Frederick Browne 15 April 1858 27 May 1932 was an English artist and children s book illustrator in the late 19th century and early 20th century He was born in Banstead the younger son of notable book illustrator Hablot Knight Browne who as Phiz illustrated books by Charles Dickens He studied art at the Heatherley School of Fine Art and South Kensington Schools and started to receive professional commissions while still at college From the 1880s Browne was one of Britain s most prolific illustrators his work appearing in newspapers magazines and many books by children s authors including Frederic William Farrar G A Henty Juliana Horatia Ewing Andrew Lang Talbot Baines Reed L T Meade Catherine Christian and E Nesbit Browne worked in watercolour and pen and ink He was a member of the Royal Institute of Painters in Water Colours RI and the Royal Society of British Artists RBA He died in Richmond London in 1932

George Alfred Henty 8 December 1832 16 November 1902 was a prolific English novelist and war correspondent He is best known for his historical adventure stories that were popular in the late 19th century His works include The Dragon The Raven 1886 For The Temple 1888 Under Drake s Flag 1883 and In Freedom s Cause 1885 G A Henty was born in Trumpington near Cambridge He was a sickly child who had to spend long periods in bed During his frequent illnesses he became an avid reader and developed a wide range of interests which he carried into adulthood He attended Westminster School London and later Gonville and Caius College Cambridge where he was a keen sportsman He left the university early without completing his degree to volunteer for the Army Hospital Commissariat when the Crimean War began He was sent to the Crimea and while there he witnessed the appalling conditions under which the British soldier had to fight His letters home were filled with vivid descriptions of what he saw His father was impressed by his letters and sent them to The Morning Advertiser newspaper which printed them This initial writing success was a factor in Henty s later decision to accept the offer to become a special correspondent the early name for journalists now better known as war correspondents
