Business To Business Marketing Strategies And Implementation:

Business-to-business Marketing Daniel Michel, Peter Naudé, Robert Salle, 2002      Business-to-Business Marketing Management Mark S. Glynn, Arch G. Woodside, 2012-04-04 This book provides knowledge and skill building training exercises in managing marketing decisions in business to business B2B contexts      Implementing Marketing Strategies Through Business-to Business Sales Forces Babak Hayati, 2012 Strategy implementation has long been a topic of interest in marketing and sales literature However despite the theoretical and managerial importance of this topic limited research has been conducted to understand the mechanisms through which behavioral and interpersonal factors influence the strategy implementation process In this research we are particularly interested in studying marketing strategy implementation through B2B sales forces During the implementation process it is critical for higher level sales managers to motivate their subordinates and obtain their commitment to the implementation tasks Drawing on social network literature we use datasets from two large US based B2B companies to study how the interplay between formal and informal organizational structures in B2B sales forces may affect the commitment of sales managers and salespeople to their roles during a specific marketing strategy implementation Moreover we explore how sales managers should leverage formal relationships and informal social networks inside their sales business units in order to facilitate the implementation process This study has important implications both to the theory and practice of sales management Our results demonstrate that weak network ties between B2B sales managers and their sociometrically central subordinates can have detrimental effects during the implementation of marketing strategies Thus managers should either build strong network ties with their influential subordinates or manipulate the social network structures around them in order to harmonize the strategy implementation efforts in their sales groups
