Finding Time for the Old Stone Age Anne O'Connor,2007-08-16 Finding Time for the Old Stone Age explores a century of colourful debate over the age of our earliest ancestors In the mid nineteenth century curious stone implements were found alongside the bones of extinct animals Humans were evidently more ancient than had been supposed but just how old were they There were several clocks for Stone Age or Palaeolithic time and it would prove difficult to synchronize them Conflicting timescales were drawn from the fields of geology palaeontology anthropology and archaeology Anne O Connor draws on a wealth of lively personal correspondence to explain the nature of these arguments The trail leads from Britain to Continental Europe Africa and Asia and extends beyond the world of professors museum keepers and officers of the Geological Survey wine sellers diamond merchants papermakers and clerks also proposed timescales for the Palaeolithic This book brings their stories to light for the first time stories that offer an intriguing insight into how knowledge was built up about the ancient British past

Terra Michael Novacek,2025-10-16 A paleontologist awakens us to the extinction event that human activity is bringing about today The natural world as humans have always known it evolved close to 100 million years ago with the appearance of flowering plants and pollinating insects during the age of the dinosaurs Its tremendous history is now in danger of profound catastrophic disruption In Terra a brilliant synthesis of evolutionary biology paleontology and modern environmental science Michael Novacek shows how all three can help us understand and prevent what he and others call today s mass extinction event Humanity s use of land our consumption the pollution we create and our contributions to global warming are causing this crisis True the fossil record of hundreds of millions of years reveals that wild and bounteous nature has always evolved not quietly but thunderously as species arise flourish die off and are replaced by new species We learn from paleontology and archaeology that for 50 000 years human hunting mining and agriculture have changed many localities sometimes irrevocably But today Novacek insists our behavior endangers the entire global ecosystem And if we disregard through ignorance antipathy or apathy the theory of evolution that developed with our modern understanding of the Earth s past we not only impede enlightenment but threaten any practical strategy for our own survival The evolutionary
