Evolutionary Dynamics and Sustainable Development Norman Clark, Francisco Perez-Trejo, Peter Murray Allen, 1995 This major book begins with a critical evaluation of conventional economic approaches to development planning and then explores how modern general systems theory can show economic development as a process of structural change The authors then develop a model which they explore through case studies of both Senegal and Crete

Water Management in New Zealand's Canterbury Region Bryan R. Jenkins, 2018-01-06 The book is designed to achieve two major purposes The first is to describe the developments in water management policy in the Canterbury Region of New Zealand The strategic approach the collaborative engagement and the nested adaptive systems approach represent a paradigm shift in water management in New Zealand The second is to delineate the sustainability framework that underpins the Canterbury approach The framework is based on the concept of developing sustainability strategies to address critical failure pathways While the focus of the book is on Canterbury comparative applications of the framework to issues in other parts of New Zealand and international issues are proposed The book can be used in at least two ways The first is the application of a sustainability framework to the management of water in Canterbury region The second is the exposition of a sustainability framework that can be applied to the management of water in a region with the application to Canterbury as an illustrative case study Levers for a Sustainable Development Policy Belgium Federal Science Policy Office,2002

Sustainable Development and Integrated Appraisal in a Developing World Norman Lee,Colin H. Kirkpatrick,2000 It is widely recognized that sustainable development can only be achieved if environmental economic and social issues are combined in development plans policies and programmes This book examines the integrated approach to the development process and analyses the theory and practice of integrating assessment techniques and decision making The editors begin by presenting a comprehensive introduction to integrated appraisal in development strategies as well as outlining issues which are important to the future understanding and practical application of integrated appraisal A group of authors from a range of disciplinary and country backgrounds then present alternative perspectives and methods of an integrated approach to sustainable development and apply integrated appraisal to a variety of case studies from developing and transitional countries This book will be warmly welcomed by development policymakers and consultants in government and non government organizations as well as academics and postgraduates working in the fields of economics development and environmental studies Regional Sustainability Irene Ring,1999-08-19 This book presents interdisciplinary approaches towards achieving regional sustainability The relevance of interdisciplinary research and its consequences for economic research into the environment are elaborated and new approaches are developed to integrate knowledge from ecological and social sciences into economic research Regional Sustainability includes the development of theoretical concepts as well as applied regional case studies relating to nature conservation and agricultural policies coastal management and air pollution problems Centered around the themes of decision making processes modelling as support for policy analysis and the evaluation of policies it successfully addresses problems facing researchers and policy makers in the context of regional sustainable development The book pays special attention to human behaviour and stakeholders in decision making processes and contributes to the transition from ecological economics to socio ecological economics FEPA Newsletter ,1985

Sustainable Development and Planning II A. Kungolos,C. A. Brebbia,Élias Beriatos,2005 In recent years many countries have experienced an increase in spatial problems that has led to planning crises The use of modern planning technologies such as geographical information systems and remote sensing gives us new potential to monitor and prevent environmental degradation Effective strategies for management should consider sustainable development and planning and emphasise the need to handle these matters in an integrated way These volumes contain the contributions presented at the Second International Conference on Sustainable Development and Planning which deal with the following topics City planning

Environmental impact assessment Environmental legislation and policy Environmental management Waste management
Resources management Geo informatics Transportation Ecosystems analysis protection and remediation Regional planning
Rural development A Multidisciplinary approach to territorial International Journal of Sustainable Development ,2007
