Decision At Midnight Inside The Canada U S Free Trade Negotiations:

Decision at Midnight Michael Hart, Colin Robertson, 1995 On 2 January 1988 Canada and the United States signed what was then the most comprehensive free trade agreement that the world has seen Decision at Midnight is the story of the FTA negotiations themselves the preparations for and conduct of those negotiations and the ideas and issues behind them From their unique perspective as participants Hart Dymond and Robertson capture the drama and the personalities involved in the long struggle to make a free trade deal They describe the extensive consultations the turf fighting among insiders the innate caution of both politicians and bureaucrats and the need to cultivate powerful constituencies in order to overcome the inertia of conventional wisdom Although they tell the story from a Canadian perspective the authors also include their perception of what was taking place in the United States and the wider world to create the circumstances that would make the negotiations desirable possible and ultimately successful Throughout they skilfully mix personalities events and issues to provide a compelling narrative and convincing analysis

GATT and Global Order in the Postwar Era Francine McKenzie, 2020-04-09 This history of GATT explains how trade was implicated in foreign policy and international relations and connected to global order

US Hegemony and the Americas Arturo Santa-Cruz, 2019-12-06 In this book Arturo Santa Cruz advances an understanding of power as a social relationship and applies it consistently to the economic realm in United States relations with other countries of the Western Hemisphere Following the academic and popular debate on the ebb and flow of US hegemony this work centers the analysis in a critical case for the exercise of US power through its economic statecraft the Americas its historical zone of influence The rationale for the regional focus is methodological if it can be shown that Washington's sway has decreased in the area since the early 1970s when the discussion about this matter started it can be safely assumed that the same has occurred in other latitudes The analysis focuses on three regions North America Central America and South America Since each region contains countries that have at times maintained very different relationships with the United States the findings contribute to a better understanding of the practice of US power in the sub region in question adding greater variability to the overall results

US Hegemony and the Americas Power and Economic Statecraft in International Relations is an invaluable resource for students and scholars interested in Latin American History and Politics North American Regional Integration International Relations Economic Statecraft Political Economy and Comparative Politics

Continentalizing Canada Gregory J. Inwood, 2005-01-01 Free trade has been a highly contentious issue since the Conservative government of Brian Mulroney negotiated the first deal with the United States in the 1980s Tracing the roots of Canada's contemporary involvement in North American free trade back to the Royal Commission on the Economic Union and Development Prospects for Canada in 1985 also known as the Macdonald Commission Gregory J Inwood offers a critical examination of the commission and how its findings affected Canada's political and economic landscape including its present day reverberations Using original research including content analysis interviews archival information and surveys of relevant literature Inwood argues that the Macdonald Commission created an atmosphere and political discourse that made the continentalization of Canada possible by way of free trade agreements with the U S and Mexico Through the use of a suspect research program and with the aid of a select oligarchy within the Commission and the government bureaucracy opposition to continentalism from both the majority of the Canadian population and even several commissioners was ignored Accessible to readers interested in Canadian politics policy or economy Continentalizing Canada offers a thorough examination into the Macdonald Commission and the resulting discourse in the Canadian political economy

Summits & Regional Governance Gordon Mace, Jean-Philippe Therien, Diana Tussie, Olivier Dabène, 2015-10-30 Despite the large number of regional and global summits there is very little known about the functioning and impact of this particular type of diplomatic practice While recognizing that the growing importance of summits is a universal phenomenon this volume takes advantage of the richness of the Americas experiment to offer a theoretically grounded comparative analysis of contemporary summitry The book addresses questions such as How effective have summits been How have civil society and other non state actors been involved in summits How have summits impacted on the management of regional affairs Filling a significant void in the literature this volume offers an original contribution helping to understand how summitry has become a central feature of world politics It will be of great interest to students and scholars of diplomacy international organizations and global regional governance

Painful Choices David A. Welch, 2011-06-27 Under what conditions should we expect states to do things radically differently all of a sudden In this book David Welch seeks to answer this question constructing a theory of foreign policy change inspired by organization theory cognitive and motivational psychology and prospect theory He then test drives the theory in a series of comparative case studies in the security and trade domains Argentina s decision to go to war over the Falklands Malvinas vs Japan s endless patience with diplomacy in its conflict with Russia over the Northern Territories America s decision to commit large scale military force to Vietnam vs its ultimate decision to withdraw and Canada s two abortive flirtations with free trade with the United States in 1911 and 1948 vs its embrace of free trade in the late 1980s Painful Choices has three main objectives to determine whether the general theory project in the field of international relations can be redeemed given disappointment with previous attempts to reflect on what this reveals about the possibilities and limits of general theory and to inform policy Welch argues that earlier efforts at general theory erred by aiming to explain state behavior which is an intractable problem Instead since inertia is the default expectation in international politics all we need do is to explain changes in behavior Painful Choices shows that this is a tractable problem with clear implications for intelligence analysts and negotiators

Trade Area for the Americas Joseph A. McKinney, Melissa A. Essary, 1995 Smelter Smoke in North America John D. Wirth, 2000 Air pollution challenges nations sharing common borders to balance economic needs with protecting citizens and the environment across jurisdictions By examining landmark cases on the two borders John Wirth shows how environmental diplomacy citizen action at the grassroots level and the role of science industry and the law converged bringing Canada the United States and Mexico to the threshold of today's continental approaches to pollutant pathways Wirth first examines the famous Trail smelter conflict of 1927-1941 This precedent setting case which pitted U.S. farmers against the Canadian smelter resulted in the doctrine that in cases of transborder damage the polluter must pay Although the farmers were modestly compensated and the British Columbia based smelter cooperated to control pollution Wirth reveals the real significance of the decision U.S. industries shared with the Canadians a common interest to resolve the case in a manner that would allow them to continue to pollute freely across international borders with minimal regulation Wirth then turns to the Gray Triangle confrontations of the 1980s in which the new instruments of the Clean Air Act and cooperative policies developed by the Mexican and U.S. governments established an entirely new climate for citizen action resulting in the closing of an American smelter in Arizona and the imposition of stricter standards on two Mexican smelters in Sonora Although the Trail precedent favored industry the Gray Triangle resolution signaled that the needs of industry and the public interest were now in better balance Drawing on extensive interviews and previously untapped archives Smelter Smoke in North America provides new analysis of the development of a North American institutional response to continental air pollution It chronicles how industry developed a continental perspective in a shared regional space the mineralized West and how successful efforts of governments and citizens to protect the environment evolved
