BOOK JACKET An Annotated Timeline of Operations Research Saul I. Gass, Arjang A. Assad, 2007-02-15 An Annotated Timeline of Operations Research An Informal History recounts the evolution of Operations Research OR as a new science the science of decision making Arising from the urgent operational issues of World War II the philosophy and methodology of OR has permeated the resolution of decision problems in business industry and government The Timeline chronicles the history of OR in the form of self contained expository entries Each entry presents a concise explanation of the events and people under discussion and provides key sources where further relevant information can be obtained In addition books and papers that have influenced the development of OR or helped to educate the first generations of OR academics and practitioners are cited throughout the book Starting in 1564 with seminal ideas that form the precursors of OR the Timeline traces the key ideas and events of OR through 2004 The Timeline should interest anyone involved in OR researchers practitioners academics and especially students who wish to learn how OR came into being Further the scope and expository style of the Timeline should make it of value to the general reader interested in the development of science and technology in the last half of the twentieth century Decision Science: A Human-Oriented Perspective George Mengov, 2015-05-15 This book offers a new perspective on human decision making by comparing the established methods in decision science with innovative modelling at the level of neurons and neural interactions The book presents a new generation of computer models which can predict with astonishing accuracy individual economic choices when people make them by quick intuition rather than by effort A vision for a new kind of social science is outlined whereby neural models of emotion and cognition capture the dynamics of socioeconomic systems and virtual social networks The exposition is approachable by experts as well as by advanced students The author is an Associate Professor of Decision Science with a doctorate in Computational Neuroscience and a former software consultant to banks in the City of London Effective Environmental Regulation David P.

Angel, Halina Szejnwald Brown, Patrick G. Derr, 2000-07-30 Challenging views prevalent among Western and Polish scholars this book explains Poland's surprising success in developing effective environmental and occupational regulatory systems while achieving remarkable socioeconomic growth despite the toxic legacy of the Communist era. It offers rich insights into the questions of how one can achieve both economic growth and improved environmental and safety protection and of the extent to which regulatory systems can be transferred across national and cultural boundaries. The authors develop a theoretical framework for assessing regulatory success then use it to analyze Poland's recent experience. Grounded in five case studies of recently privatized firms, the analysis also presents a new survey of privately owned firms, extensive policy and data analysis, and interviews with key policy leaders, entrepreneurs, and intellectuals. The book points to case-specific decision making and information richness as key dimensions of an effective regulatory system and considers in depth the extent to which information richness is culturally dependent and hence its portability as a policy tool. Addressing regulatory issues that are specific to both the United States and the international development community, the book makes a significant contribution to advancing the theoretical and conceptual frameworks used to explain the success or lack of success of regulatory systems. Behavioral Decision Analysis Florian M. Federspiel, Gilberto Montibeller, Matthias Seifert, 2024-05-30

This book lays out a foundation and taxonomy for Behavioral Decision Analysis featuring representative work across various domains. Traditional research in the domain of Decision Analysis has focused on the design and application of logically consistent tools to support decision makers during the process of structuring problem complexity, modeling uncertainty, generating predictions, eliciting preferences, and ultimately making better decisions. Two commonly held assumptions are that the decision maker's cognitive belief system is fully accessible and that this system can be understood and formalized by trained analysts. However, in past years, an active line of research has emerged studying instances in which such assumptions may not hold. This book unites this community under the common theme of Behavioral Decision Analysis. The taxonomy used in this book categorizes research based on task focus (prediction or decision) and behavioral level (individual or group). Two theoretical lenses that lie at the interface between 1) normative and descriptive research and 2) normative and prescriptive research are introduced. The book then proceeds to highlight representative works across the two lenses, focused on individual and group level decision making. Featuring various methodologies and applications, the book serves as a reference for researchers, students, and professionals across different disciplines with a common interest in Behavioral Decision Analysis. A Science of Decision Making Ward Edwards, 2009

Ward Edwards is well known as the father of behavioral decision making. In his 1954 Psychological Bulletin paper on decision making, he brought psychological ideas into what had been the province of economists. His influence in this realm is so pervasive that the Nobel committee was able to trace a direct path from Edwards's work to Daniel Kahneman's 2002 Prize for prospect theory. In a 1963 Psychological Review paper, Edwards brought Bayesian statistics to the attention of psychologists, who have continued to proliferate Bayesian ideas.

underscoring the importance of the perspective In a 1962 IEEE paper Edwards foresaw how the world of intelligence gathering and analysis could be transformed by systems in which humans provided subjective probabilities and machines provided computational power He also showed in a 1986 book written with Detlof von Winterfeldt how multiattribute utility analysis could help real world decision makers generate satisfactory solutions to complex problems In this book 29 of Ward Edwards's most important published papers are reprinted a selection that spans six decades allowing the reader to see how this strikingly creative thinker generated many of the ideas that are now core beliefs among current researchers It is perhaps less well known that Edwards continued to make substantial contributions during the years after his retirement Illness reduced his public appearances but he continued his incisive thinking behind the scenes At the time of his passing he was involved in several projects and seven new papers from these projects were completed for this book by his last set of collaborators Edwards's papers are a treat to read His prose is the model of elegant simplicity yet full of style and wit With each paper the editors have included a short introduction that presents Edwards's reflections on the content or impact of the older papers or describes the creation of the new ones Obituaries written by former students and colleagues flesh out the human side of this remarkable scholar

Organizational Behavior and Human Decision Processes, 1998 OR/MS Today, 2004

Proceedings of the Nutrition Society, 2002 Robust Bayesian Analysis David Rios Insua, 2000-09-14 This edited volume will present an overview of robust Bayesian methods and their applications Chapters will explore both foundational and computational aspects together with applications Chapters concerning foundations will describe decision theoretical axiomatisations leading to the robust Bayesian paradigm and motivate reasons for which robust analyses are practically unavoidable within Bayesian analysis

Evidence and Inference in History and Law William Twining, Iain Hampsher-Monk, 2003 However little that various disciplines in the humanities and social sciences might seem to have in common they share certain interests in methodological problems relating to evidence inference and interpretation By pursuing these shared interests across divergent topics and fields the contributors to this book advance our understanding of how such truth seeking proof finding methods work and of what it means to prove something in a range of contexts Coedited by William Twining one of the world's outstanding evidence scholars and Iain Hampsher-Monk a leading political theorist the volume considers intriguing questions from different realms Assyriology theatre iconography musicology criminology the history of ideas and colonial history as it reveals how particular concepts lines of questioning and techniques of reasoning and analysis developed in one context can be fruitfully applied in others
