Discipline in Scottish Secondary Schools Margaret Johnstone, Pamela Munn, 1992 A study was conducted to obtain an overall picture of discipline problems in Scottish secondary schools In particular the study sought to clarify what teachers counted as a discipline problem how Scottish views related to views in England and Wales the headteacher's role and how discipline related to other managerial tasks A questionnaire was sent to 112 schools with approximately 10 teachers per school asked to complete it The total sample was 1 011 teachers A supplementary survey was done 6 months later of all secondary school headteachers in the state sector in Scotland Key findings include the following 1 teachers viewed the issue of discipline as central 2 teachers were willing to consider and to propose solutions and 3 good discipline and a happy school required joint and concerted effort of all the staff Generally analysis of the responses indicated two opposing views 1 that school and society were out of step and that discipline would be improved if society could be changed and 2 that negotiation over discipline was possible Further the study findings suggest that there are no easy solutions many schools are trying hard and a pool of skills and knowledge exists Included are a technical appendix 30 tables and 8 references JB Proceedings of the Parliament of South Australia South Australia.
