Coping With Recession U K Company Performance In Adversity:

Coping with Recession Paul A. Geroski, Paul Gregg, 1997-10-02 The text examines how companies cope with the pressures which are unleashed by recessions It is based on a large scale survey undertaken in the spring of 1993 which involved the participation of more than 600 leading UK companies The questionnaire data was combined with a long enough time series of data on the financial performance of most of the companies to enable us to trace effects left over from the recession in the early 1980s The main issues examined in the book are what makes companies vulnerable to recessionary pressures How do companies typically respond to these pressures How have recessionary pressures been transmitted back into labour markets and what kinds of institutional changes have they induced Finally do recessionary pressures stimulate innovative activity

Business in Britain in the Twentieth Century Richard Coopey, Peter Lyth, 2009 This collection of fresh incisive scholarship by some of the leading business historians critically examines the nature of economic recovery in Britain in recent years Covering the key issues for business history in this period the book confronts the traditional literature on conclusions of relative decline and monocausal simplistic explanations It provides an impressive range of studies forming a platform for a new debate on the nature of British business in the 20th century Themes include productivity management research and development marketing regional clusters and networks industrial policy the use of technology and gender Sector studies include newer post war hopefuls and successes including aerospace IT retail banking overseas investment the creative industries The book demonstrates that our understanding of the historic strengths and weaknesses of business in Britain and the shifting balance between sectors of the economy has until now been poorly understood and that British business history needs a fundamental reappraisal
