Coping with Imprisonment Nicolette Parisi, 1982-02 Parisi has compiled a volume of original essays about coping with stress in prison. They cover such topics as the causes of the stress who suffers most how prisoners deal with the stress and how institutions can alleviate it. The book reviews prisoners strategies for survival from withdrawal to aggressive rebellion organized strikes and explosive riots and how grievance procedures sentencing and parole policies can either contribute to or reduce stress. This volume is both easy to read and well organized. The papers selected for inclusion were appropriate. The reader who has a novice interest in this topic will find this volume to be a valued addition. Correctional students policy makers and educators will

The Indian Journal of Criminology & Criminalistics, 2000 The Effects of Imprisonment Alison Liebling, Shadd Maruna, 2013-06-17 This book brings together a group of leading authorities in this field both academics and practitioners to address the complex issues that the increasing number of prisoners in the UK USA and elsewhere has raised. It assesses the implications and results of research in this field and suggests ways of mitigating the often devastating personal and psychological consequences of imprisonment. The Criminal Justice Periodical Index, 1993

Managing Police Work Jack R. Greene, 1982-02 Seven articles explore defining and measuring the police role human resources planning professionalism internal communications and police citizen interactions. A model for assessing police crime control effectiveness emphasizes organizational and environmental factors affecting crime prevention goals. Urban police agencies should consider adopting a social planning perspective measuring effectiveness by how well police serve the actual users of their services rather than the abstract public. An analysis of police personnel planning finds that external factors e.g. labor supply economic trends affecting data collection should be incorporated into any planning effort. An examination of professionalism concludes that police meet few of the criteria for professional standing and that it would be dangerous to award police professional privileges such as confidentiality. A discussion of citizen complaints against urban police suggests that minorities particularly blacks assessments of police performance are negatively affected by police practices. Analyses based on the Managerial Grid and Johari Window measures help synthesize current thinking about police managers leadership and communication styles. Examining internal communications from the perspective of the individual officer researchers find a moderate to weak association between officers assessments of communications and job satisfaction. These findings are consistent with ethnographic interpretations and cast doubt on administrative assumptions derived from organizational and motivation theory. The articles include references and study data. Federal Prisons Journal, 1991

Long-Term Imprisonment Timothy J. Flanagan, 1995-04-06 With recent sentencing law changes at the state and national level the United States will continue to use long term confinement more than any other nation in the world. In this authoritative yet accessible volume scholars correctional authorities researchers and prisoners examine the use of long term incarceration as a response to crime the effects of long term incarceration and the strategies used by long term inmates to adjust to confinement Long Term Imprisonment explores the prison experience of both male and female inmates and discusses the correctional management challenges posed by long term incarceration The core of this collection edited by Timothy Flanagan is a set of articles first published in The Prison Journal the official journal of the Pennsylvania Prison Society and the oldest journal in the field of corrections These articles are complemented with research reports on the effects of long term confinement a comprehensive analysis of long term inmates currently confined in American and Canadian prisons and essays written by long term prisoners If you are interested in the use and operation of prisons and in the impact of these institutions on the people confined within them this book is for you In addition to students studying imprisonment the book informs correctional administrators and policymakers about the nature of long term inmate population and the impact of long term imprisonment Timothy Flanagan began studying the effects of long term incarceration over two decades ago when he conducted one of the first major studies of prisoners serving long sentences Since then many changes have occurred in corrections and sentences practices that have greatly increased sentence lengths and the number of prisoners serving long sentences The collection of the essays contained in Long Term Imprisonment represents the most comprehensive up to date and definitive review of literature regarding the effects of long term incarceration on prisoners Flanagan provides readers with a variety of perspectives of long term imprisonment by including articles written by prison researchers corrections officials and long term prisoners This book is must reading for anyone interested in life in prisons and the unique world of the long term prisoner Kevin N Wright Binghamton University

The Lived Experiences of Claiming Wrongful Conviction in Prison Emma Burt, 2023-12-29 The Lived Experiences of Claiming Wrongful Conviction in Prison focuses on the lived experience of maintaining innocence in the prison environment and highlights the struggles and pain that such a claim can cause Using the little utilised means of conducting an interview via a series of letters the book details the experiences of 64 prisoners maintaining innocence in England and Wales and examines in depth what is unique to this population The chapters cover coping mechanisms relationships maintained with relatives relationships formed with prisoners and staff and the perceived effect of their claims on matters of progression and parole It draws on material from criminology sociology law and psychology to provide a holistic account of this population s experiences The Lived Experiences of Claiming Wrongful Conviction in Prison will be of great interest to students and scholars across the disciplines of criminology criminal justice law sociology and psychology

Prisons, Punishment, and the Family Rachel Condry, Peter Scharff Smith, 2018 Every year millions of families are affected by the imprisonment of a family member Children of imprisoned parents alone can be counted in millions in the USA and in Europe It is a bewildering fact that while we have had prisons for centuries and the deprivation of liberty has been a central pillar in the Western mode of punishment since the early nineteenth century we have only relatively recently embarked upon a serious discussion of the severe effects of imprisonment for the families and relatives of offenders and the implications this has for society This book draws together

some of the excellent research that addresses the impact of criminal justice and incarceration in particular upon the families of offenders It assembles examples of recent and ongoing studies from eight different countries in order to not only learn about the secondary effects and collateral consequences of imprisonment but also to understand what the experiences and lived realities of prisoners families means for the sociology of punishment and our broader understanding of criminal justice systems While punishment and society scholarship has gained significant ground in recent years it has often remained silent on the ways in which the families of prisoners are affected by our practices of punishment This book provides evidence of the importance of including families within this scholarship and explores themes of legitimacy citizenship human rights marginalization exclusion and inequality
