Coping with Korea Gary P. Steenson, 1987 Coping with the North Korea Nuclear Weapons Problem Amos A. Jordan, 1993 Schizophrenia in the 21st Century T.H.J. Burne, 2012-03-23 Schizophrenia is a poorly understood but very disabling group of brain disorders While hallucinations and delusions positive symptoms of schizophrenia feature prominently in diagnostic criteria impairments of memory and attentional processing cognitive symptoms of schizophrenia are attracting increasing interest in modern neuropsychiatry Schizophrenia in the 21st Century brings together recent findings on this group of devastating disorders We are still a long way from having effective treatment options particularly for cognitive symptoms and lack effective interventions and ways to prevent this disease This volume covers various current options for therapy clinical research into cognitive symptoms of schizophrenia and preclinical research in animal models

Community Series in Mental Illness, Culture, and Society: Dealing with the COVID-19 Pandemic, volume VIII Mohammadreza Shalbafan, Samer El Hayek, Renato de Filippis, 2024-06-21 The COVID 19 outbreak has impacted many areas of our lives including mental health Lockdown and physical distancing measures have been one major effective intervention to counter the spread of the virus and reduce the impact of the disease However they have negatively impacted mental well being and behaviors either triggering the onset of new psychiatric symptoms and diseases or amplifying pre existing ones The pandemic and lockdown measures have also been associated with reduced access to treatment and facilities all over the world further worsening mental health outcomes The impact on mental health although universal varied between nations Cultural and societal variables including norms values religion and stigma have played an important role in shaping COVID 19 related mental health symptoms including anxiety depression grief psychosis and addiction These sociocultural factors have also molded how mental health interventions are tailored and provided Highlighting the intertwining relationship between the pandemic mental health and sociocultural factors are essential to managing emerging mental health symptoms adequately Examining the Emotions and Coping Mechanisms of Korean-Americans in Response to Modern-day North Korea Kelly Rivas, 2018 The purpose of this research study is to explore the emotions and coping mechanisms of Korean Americans in response to North Korea's current political climate I hypothesize that Korean Americans have a high level of anxiety from events surrounding North Korea I also hypothesize that in response Korean Americans use coping methods that oftentimes does not include professional mental health services Data is obtained through a seven question online survey This exploratory study focuses on qualitative input generated into quantitative data Results show that the anxiety levels of Korean Americans vary depending on their reported ancestry and birth decade The following data also finds that the most popular coping mechanisms include talking with family or friends and also every participant believes professional mental health services are important Openness to using mental health services seems to be affected by ancestry The results point to the possibility that individuals who are more connected to Korean culture are less anxious about North Korea because they have been exposed to a culture where the heightened political tension has been commonplace for decades Older participants born in the 50 s perhaps have a heightened anxiety level because they grew up in a culture that has experienced the effects of the Korean War Participants who were born in the 70 s and 80 s have less anxiety but anxiety increases again in participants born in the 90 s perhaps due to the increased political tension in recent years through a different historical lens South Korea's Wild Ride Gilbert Rozman,Sue Mi Terry,Eun A Jo,2023-09-01 Rozman Terry and Jo analyze the geopolitical shifts in South Korea s policies toward its neighbors and allies over the course of the Park Geun hye and Moon Jae in administrations into the early years of the Yoon Suk yeol administration 2013 to 2022 was a tumultuous decade in South Korean politics and especially in its foreign policy Through two changes of its own presidency as well as the rise and fall of the Trump administration in the United States South Korea s politicians and diplomats have pursued different attempts at bridge building with North Korea before arriving at a more cautious and defensive position The authors track the different attempts by Park and Moon to pursue increasingly optimistic attempts at reconciliation and how they were thwarted by excessive idealism domestic divisions and broader great power rivalries notably including Russia China and Japan An essential guide to understanding the trajectory of South Korean foreign policy for students of Korean politics as well as scholars and policy practitioners Culture and Emotion in Educational Dynamics, volume II Enrique H. Riquelme,Dario Paez,Silvia

Cristina da Costa Dutra,2025-03-07 This Research Topic is the second volume of Research Topic Culture and Emotion in Educational Dynamics Please see the first volume here Culture plays a significant role in regulating emotions and influencing the dissemination of education particularly within diverse geographic locations However the impact of culture on emotional dynamics within educational settings is not well understood This is particularly important within contexts of social and cultural diversity where schools must navigate cultural and majority emotional dynamics The aim of this research topic is to provide a comprehensive overview of the current state of the art in the field of emotional dynamics in education with a particular focus on the ways in which culture mediates these dynamics The topic will also explore the problems and solutions deployed within educational contexts of cultural diversity with a specific emphasis on school family and community interaction This research topic seeks to integrate experiences and contributions from diverse regions of the world to provide a comprehensive understanding of the role of culture in regulating emotions in educational dynamics The ultimate goal is to promote culturally responsive practices and policies that foster emotional well being and academic success for all learners
